Convicted Murderer of James B. Miller Passes Away in

WESTERN PENITENTIARY

-Noted Case in Local Court-Blacksmith Burned Beyond Identity-Homicide and Forgery.

Early Thursday morning of last week, Henry Rose, who was, on September 9, 1906, convicted of the murder of James B. Miller at Rainsburg during the evening or night of May 22, 1905, died in the Western Penitentiary, where he was serving a sentence of 30 years; 20 for manslaughter and 10 for forgery, to which charge he also pleaded guilty. The immediate cause of his death was cancer, his remains being disposed of without being returned to this county for interment.

The history of the case and the evidence brought out at the trial are still fresh in the minds of the people of the county, both of which were published in The Gazette of September 7, 1906; and in an extra edition issued on September 10 of the same

On the night above mentioned fire was discovered in Miller's blacksmith and wagonmaker shop in the Borough of Rainsburg, and the flames were not extinguished until the building was consumed. The trunk of the body of James B. Miller was taken from the debris, and during the early summer Rose was arrested, charged with the murder, and on Sunday, September 9,-1906, the jury returned a "guilty of murder in the first degree."

The Court refused a motion for a new trial but allowed a change of pleading. The then convicted man changed his plea to "guilty" and the Court fixed the degree at "second" and sentenced the prisoner to 20 years in the Western Penitentiary, adding 10 years for forgery, of which he also pleaded guilty. A paper was filed with the Prothonotary later, but to be marked as of record on the day of the finding of the verdict.

Rose was taken to the penitentiary and began serving his long term. His yesight was fast failing while imprisoned in the local jail, and after entering the pentientiary an operation was performed upon one of his

Miss Kilroy Investigates

By TROY ALLISON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

To the casual observer Miss Kilrov did not seem exactly fitted for an investigator of sociological problems. The government had probably been prompted by some wise head when it appointed women to that branch of work.

Formerly when men, important in uniforms and brass buttons, or men in plain clothes, augmented by much pomposity, had made the rounds of the foreign settlements such dignity had frightened or embarrassed the women and children to such an extent that It was an impossibility to obtain freely spoken opinions as to what they liked in America, what they did not like, what they expected Uncle Sam to do for them or what they themselves could offer as a just reason for Uncle Sam doing anything at all for them.

Nobody, however, could possibly take fright at pretty Miss Kilroy, who, dressed in the nobblest white shirt waist suit, a rather gay ribbon on her hat, knocked at the humblest door of the humblest tenements and generally found a welcome.

Grantley, in charge of the temporary quarters provided while the investigation was being carried on in this city, looked up as she entered the office in the afternoon, tired, but jubilant.

"Seems to me I have secured enough information today to make a complete report upon the sociological problem in-America," she said, throwing her notes upon her desk.

"Good work," he answered, wondering why she ever undertook such a job: "It's strange that the youngest, most-

The blond head of the sociological investigator was raised abruptly from the desk. Zulieka, however, repeated uncomprehendingly "Betrothed?"

The mother and sister of the rejected looked at each other with a flash of understanding. "Ab-h!" they breathed. "To me-to me." Grantley tapped his breast convincingly.

When the door closed behind them Grantley stood with his feet apart and his hands in his pockets, according to the method of meditating man. "By Jove!" he said finally.

A slight sniff was Miss Kilroy's only contribution toward relieving the awkwardness of the situation.

"We're engaged," he announced cheerfully.

THE HUMAN RACE.

Will Man Simply Shrink Off the Face of the Earth?

A French statistician who has been studying the military and other records with a view of determining the height of men at different periods has reached some wonderful results.

PRIDAY MORNING, APR. 30, 1909. REVISING THE TARIFF

That there was a national demand was evident. It was recognized by happy birthdays. the convention that nominated him, hence the following pledge in the platform on which he stood:

The Republican party declares unequivocally for a revision of the tariff by a special session of Congress immediately following the inauguration of the next President.

imposition of such duties as will equa. 'he difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industries.

Over and over again, in his campaign speeches Mr. Taft declared his opposition to a tariff greater than the difference in the cost of production of articles at home and abroad, including a reasonable profit to the American producers.

The tariff plank of the Republican party was read and understood by the voters of the nation to mean that excessive rates would be lowered and that there would be real revision downward. They voted for and elected Mr. Taft. The extra session was called and the revision was begun.

The work has progressed far and the Republican pledge has not been kept as it was understood by the plain people. They have complained of bad faith and pledge breaking, and to all such, Senator Aldrich has made the insolent reply: "When did the Republican party make any such promise? The Republican party in its platform did not promise to revise the tariff downward."

If this bill passes the Senate and is signed by the President the voters of the land may consider themselves tricked by the wily wording of the tariff plank in the Taft platform, and New England will reap the benefit while the other sections of the nation are not only snubbed by the bill but insulted by the reply of Senator Aldrich, which is anything but complimentary to the intelligence of the Emerican people.

The Danger in Lightning Storms and How to Get Protection.

The subject of lightning damages in the United States has become so great that it has finally arrested the attention of government, state and insurance officials, who have investi-gated the protection offered by properly constructed lightning rods and are now advocating their use.

The great number of casualties recently reported from strokes of light-ning, persons killed and property de-stroyed, gives added interest to some statistics just published by Suburban Life, showing that in this country in a single year, according to figures compiled by The Department of Agricompiled by The Department of Agri-culture, 6,256 buildings were struck by lightning, causing property loss amounting to $3,016,520. During the same period 563 persons were killed and 820 injured, and 4,251 head of livestock were killed. The same paper says that the insurance men estimated that 40 per cent. of men estimated that 40 per cent. of the barn fires are due to lightning, 10 to 15 per cent. to carelessness, 8 to 12 per cent. to overheated flues and the rest to other causes including incendiarism.

An obvious lesson from these figures is that every farmer should have his house and barns protected by

"What's the matter, Alec?" "My uncle writes me that my Cousin Lillian is coming to town for a week to do some shopping. He asks me to meet her at the station and show her some attention. I'm under great obligations to my uncle. Indeed, he is helping me through college. But what the dickens am I to do? I have three examinations coming on at the end of the week and know nothing about any one of the subjects. The only possible way for me to get through is to bone day and night. How can I do that cousinly kiss. "Why, how you have grown?" she exclaimed. "You're the only big one of the family."

"And how you have improved!" replied the young man. "I never would have supposed you would bloom into such a rare flower."

Several days, passed, during which the young man gave me undivided attention to the girl, cutting lectures, chapel and any other college duty that stood in the way of his doing so. But one morning when his friend had been up all night cramming under the stimulant of strong coffee Rathvon appeared at his room and said: "Alec, we're in a hole."

"For heaven's sake, what is it?" "Her father's coming to take her "Great Scott! What are we going to do?"

"Leave it to me." The next day Mr. Rathvon upon leaving Miss Ayres said: "I have a confession to make." "What is it?"

"Since you have been here I should have been preparing for several important examinations. One of ther comes off tomorrow morning. Fortunately your father will arrive then, and you will be provided for." "Why, Alec, you should have told me

"Goodby. Before I have sot through vith the struggle you will be gone." There was a cousinly kiss, the twentieth in four days, and he was gone.

About 5 o'clock the next afternoon Alec Ayres entered his room after having passed the last of his term examinations. He found Dick Rathvon filling a pipe from a skull tobacco holder. Alec threw himself into a ehair.

"Do you think they're gone?" he asked.

"The only through train went at 3." "There's a day of reckoning coming for this." "In the dim future. Don't borrow trouble. Take a pipe.' There was a knock on the door. Alec drew back the latch with a lazy string, and in walked his uncle and his consin.

"Poor Alec!" exclaimed Lillian," going over to Dick and laying her hand affectionately on his shoulder "Don't scold him, papa; he's been so nice to me."

"Hello, Alec, my boy!" said the uncle, grasping Alec's hand.

"Why, papa," interposed Lillian, 'what are you doing? Don't you know your own nephew? This is Alec." No hole opened to let the two boys down into the cellar, where they would fain have hidden themselves. So each drew down under his coat collar and waited for the bolt to strike him. Mr. Ayres was not a stupid man. Indeed, he saw in a moment that some prank had been played.

"If that gentleman is Alec," he said, "I have been grossly imposed upon." Lillian flushed red and white by turns.

"It's all up, Dick," said Alec. "We may as well confess. Uncle, Lillian, I have been having a terrible struggle be an accurate reporter of what has with my examinations. This is my chum, Dick Rathvon. He agreed to take care of you for me while I have it has achieved a position with the been cramming night and day. He did it all out of kindness to me." "No such thing," fired Dick. "I did it because I liked it." Lillian stood petrified. "Boys," said Mr. Ayres, "when was in college I was a scapegrace. I habit college halls. We have in the community three divisions-men, women and students. The student is a class of himself-a genus, a speciesjust as the monkey is. He has always been so and will always be so. I don't know what this bit of rascality you have been practicing is. I came here to invite my nephew to dine with us this evening, but since I have two nephews I invite you both."

Miss Lillian swept out of the room with her nose in the air. But she felt better about it by dinner time.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xill, 1-12. Memory Verses 2, 3-Golden Text, Mark xvi, 15-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

[Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.] There would be a warm welcome for Barnabas and Saul from the Christians at Antioch on their return from Jerusalem, and John Mark, Barnabas' sister's son, whom they had brought with them (xii, 25), would probably find himself in a different atmosphere from that at Jerusalem and must have been much helped by the companionship of his uncle, Barnabas, and by fellowship with such teachers as those here mentioned and by the zeal of these warm hearted believers. They ministered to the Lord and fasted. The things of this world were nothing in comparison with the things of the kingdom, and food for the body was wholly secondary when the pure bread and water of life was to be had. Some who read can understand. Although it means much to minister to the Lord, even a child can do it (I Sam. iii, 1). I bave often been impressed with this in considering the matter of ministering to the Lord-that the eight words "that they may minister in the priest's office" (Ex. xxviii, 2, 3, 4, 41, and many other places) are a translation of a little Hebrew word of three letters, and I have asked myself. Does it take as much of earth's language to open to us the little words of heaven? For we have no record of any language but Hebrew having been spoken by the Lord from heaven.

Well, I am sure thatsit means more than any of us know to "minister to the Lord." In the great book of worship. Leviticus, it is well to mark the phrases "unto the Lord" and "before the Lord," and when they become daily mottoes with us we shall know more of true ministry. While they were ministering the Holy Ghost said, "Separate Me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them" (verse 2). Here we have the whole of these chapters in one sentence and the whole of every true Christian life set apart for the Lord, separated from the world and self and sin, to do the will of God to work the works which are beforehand prepared for us (Eph. ii, 10; Phil. ii, 13; Heb. xiii, 21). So they, sent forth by the Holy Ghost. departed. When we are sent of God we always have His assurance, "Certainly I will be with thee" (Ex. iii. 12: Judg. vi, 16), and it is only by His assurance that we will be separated from all things and people not of Him (Ex. xxxiii, 16; I Kings viii, 53). If we would know God as our Father and as the Lord Almighty, the mighty God who is all sufficient for us, and have others see that we are His sons and daughters to His glory, He dwelling in us and walking in us, we must be willing to be separated from all things unto Himself (II. Cor. vi. 16-18). The Holy Ghost having set them apart, the believers by fasting and prayer united with Him in this consecration of their beloved teachers to a foreign mission. They might have said: We cannot spare them. We need them so much here. What shall we do without them? But they agreed with God and let them go and must have been specially blessed in giving to God the best they had. How honored these two men were in being named by God for this ministry! Even the longest journeys are made very little of in Scripture, for what is a journey round the world even when compared with coming from heaven to earth. which angels accomplish as swiftly as the lightning? They leave Antioch and are next at Salamis, in Cyprus, without any details as to the journey. The word is preached in the synagogues at Salamis, but no statement as to results Whether we see results or not, we can always rest on Isa, lv, 11; Jer. i, 12, R. V. They passed through the island to Paphos and found the deputy of the country eager to hear the word of God, but hindered by a Jew, a false prophet and a sorcerer, who sought to turn away the deputy from the faith.

Saul, who is now for the first time called Paul, being filled with the Spirit. spoke as plainly to him as did our Lord to the Pharisees in John viii, 44, and in the name of the Lord caused him to be blind for a season. The power of God thus manifest and the true doctrine taught by Paul so wrought upon the deputy that he became a believer.

God is the God of truth. Jesus Christ is the truth. The Spirit is the spirit of truth. There is no righteousness that can abide in the presence of God-but that which God has provided. All that is not of God is of the devil. Consider, then, in the light of these facts, how the way of the Lord and of God concerning His Son are perverted by an ever increasing number able for summer wear. of those who are called ministers of xxiii, 36; Gal. i, 7). Though there may be no Spirit filled Paul to speak plain-His power and His wrath is against ing to the cloow. all them that forsake Him." From even this much of the story of this. journey we may learn that Spirit filled messengers of God must expect the opposition of the devil.

THOUGHTS IN DREAMS

Startling Rapidity With Which the Mind Works In Sleep.

SOME STRANGE EXPERIENCES

The Events of a Whole Lifetime May Flit Past the Dreamer In a Few Moments-Queer Results of a Dream Experiment by a Noted Psychologist.

A characteristic of dreams which, as the rather materialistic Dr. Clarke says, "hints at a life that has neither beginning nor end and is bounded by no limits which human thoughts can compass" is the rapidity with which events happen in the dream world. Thus, when asleep and dreaming, we live an entire lifetime in a minute: in a space of time that is scarcely more than a second we pass through experiences that could not be duplicated in this objective sphere in hours. perhaps in years.

Count Lavalette relates that one night, when imprisoned and under sentence of death, he dreamed that he stood for five hours at a Paris street corner, where he witnessed a continuous succession of harrowing scenes of blood, every one of which wrought his soul to the highest pitch of excitement. When he woke he found that he had been asleep less than two minutes.

In a more recent experiment, made expressly to test the truth of these theories, the subject was aroused from $4.00; six months, $2.00. sleep by a few drops of water being sprinkled upon his forehead. It took but an instant to accomplish this result, and yet in that incalculably brief space of time the man dreamed of $3.85; six months, $1.95. going on an excursion; of an accident by which he was plunged into a lake, and during the long struggle to escape death that followed all the experiences of his life seemed to flash before him, months, $2.60. just as they are said to appear to a person who is actually drowning.

Dreams are tricksters. Professor Titchener of Cornell university told with gusto of his experience. As a specialist in psychology he interested himself in dreams. Like a true scientist, he once set about gathering data. He wanted to know what caused mined to watch himself when he slept and to awake himself at once when he found himself dreaming something of value. So, with a notebook on a writing table near his bed, he forced himself to waken for several nights and to write down, while the dream impressions were vivid, his remembrances of the details and by a study of the room, the bed and his physical other features condition to attempt to arrive at the possible causes of his dreams.

He was getting on famously. One pight he had a particularly vivid dream. In accordance with his practice. he forced himself to awake and immediately write down clearly everything about it, then went back to sleep again. The next morning he arose sheet was blank. He remembered pos- bowels is itively the notes he had set down thereon in the middle of the preceding night. The next night again he wrote down his notes after his dreams, only to have the same uncanny sensation the next morning at finding nothing recorded. The strange circumstances set him to pondering. That night he impressed upon his mind before dropping off into slumber that he must awaken with his first dream, or, if not with that, with his second dream. Subsequently this his second dream. Subsequently this strong antesleeping command delivered to himself was present all through his dream consciousness. When the Bees is the original laxative cough syrup. first scenes of a vivid dream came before his fancy he felt himself awaken, and he set about writing down the facts upon the pad at his table.

It was then that from some source of inner consciousness he felt the command again to awake, although he seemed at the time to be in full possession of his normal faculties. His eyes opened, and the secret was out. He found himself lying in bed, where he had been all that night. His rising after each dream had become so much a routine that he had dreamed that seemed reality.-Outing Magazine.

The Weather Test Proves B. P. S. the Best.

Any paint looks well when first applied. The proof of quality lies in the way paint lasts through freezing, thawing, hail, rain, and the blistering heat of summer.

B. P. S. STANDS THE TEST The best of materials, carefully mixed and thoroughly ground, make B. P. S. a weather-resisting paint that, when properly applied, will not wash off, chalk, crack nor peel when the weather gets at it
